A RAY OF HOPE...

In a world of chaos and destruction, some people, by the will of Allah (S.W.T) become a ray of hope and light. The project of AlHuda Community Schools (ACS) was first initiated by a small group of people and in a short span of time it emerged as a network of 9 nationwide branches. ACS, a network of welfare schools, is solely serving the underprivileged children of the society. Our aim is to uplift our students both educationally and morally. For the same reason, our focus is not just to educate but to instil good morals and build character of our students.

We provide all kind of support to our students free of cost, including books, uniforms, education and infrastructure. In some areas lunch and ration is also provided. We strive to make access to free education possible for every child. Our focus on moral values ensures that children are groomed holistically.

MAKING AN IMPACT

What started as a one-room school for the underprivileged children of Iqbal Town, Lahore in 2005, soon expanded to other areas of the city. More and more children started benefiting. As the classes increased, the need for further professional supervision and academic support was felt for which these welfare schools were officially acquired by AIWF under the name of AlHuda Community Schools in October 2019. Thereafter, AlHuda Schools Network, a project of AIWF, is providing professional seamless support to ACS and is ensuring that these schools maintain high academic standards along with Islamic values.
